In 2008, Family Health Centers of San Diego cared for over 120,000 individuals through over 490,000 patient encounters.

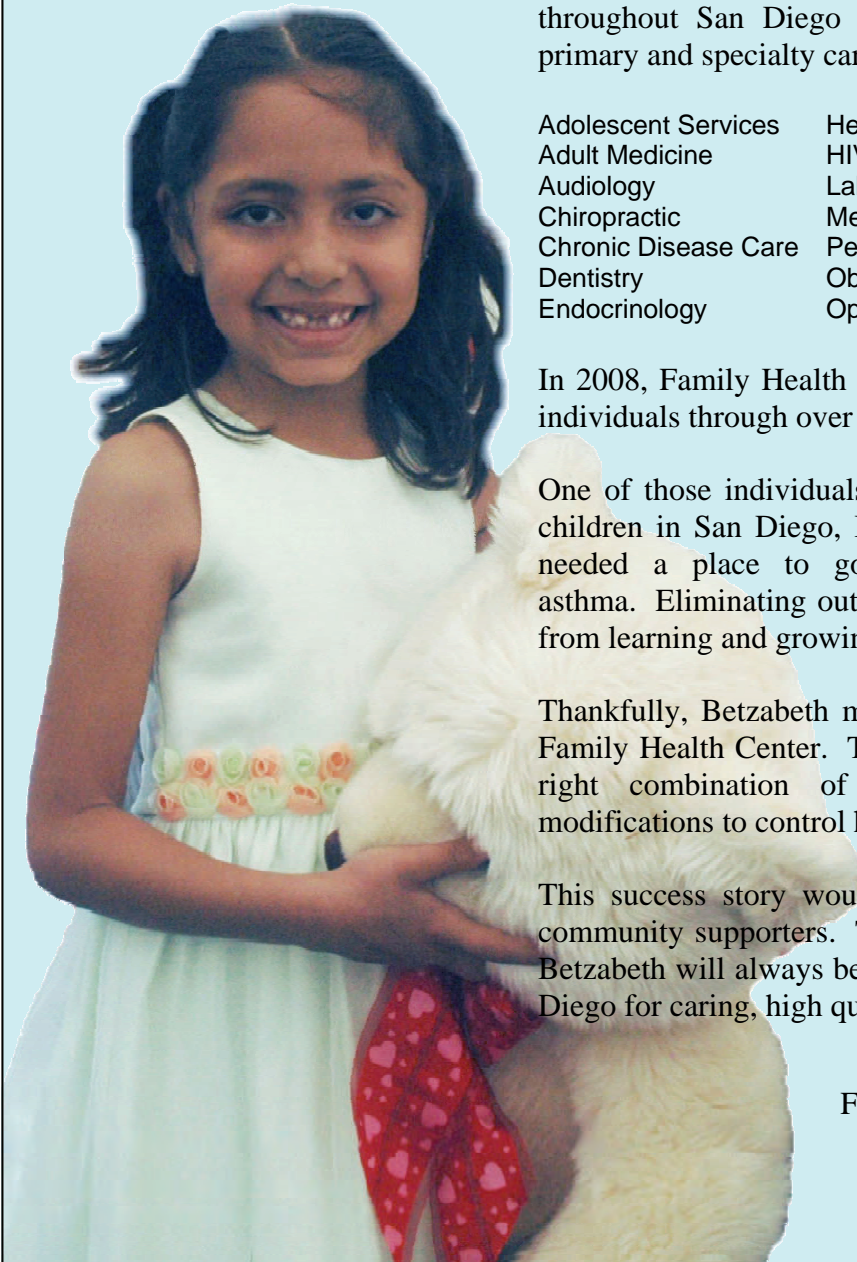

One of those individuals was Betzabeth Avalos (left). Like so many children in San Diego, Betzabeth had little access to healthcare; she needed a place to go for help to learn how to control her asthma. Eliminating outside play and avoiding poor weather kept her from learning and growing.

Thankfully, Betzabeth met pediatrician Dr. Newell at Logan Heights Family Health Center. Together, Betzabeth and Dr. Newell found the right combination of exercise, medication and environmental modifications to control her asthma.

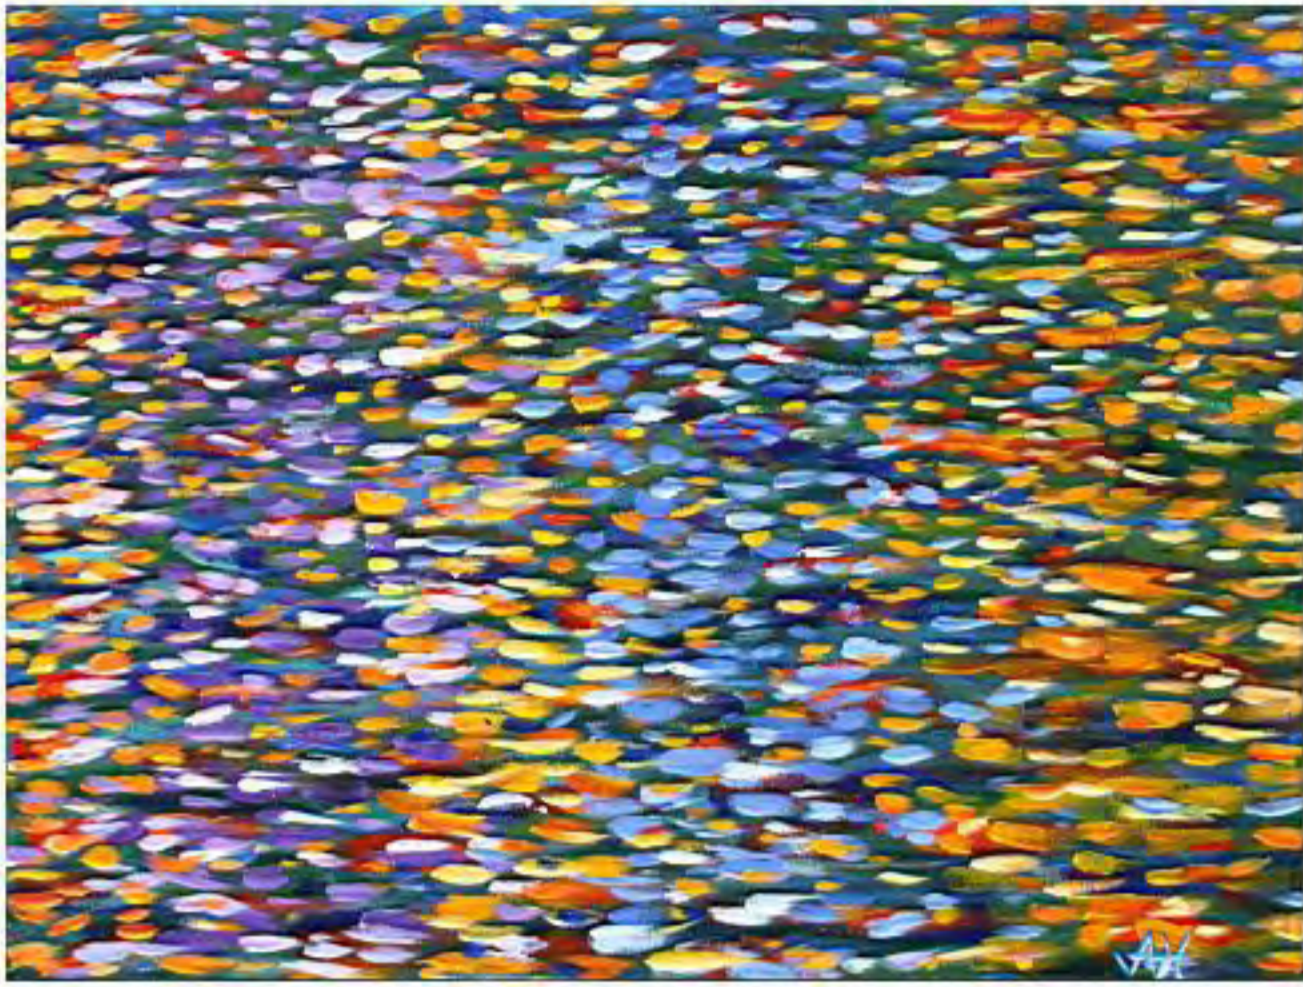

This success story would not have been possible without generous community supporters. Thank you for helping to ensure children like Betzabeth will always be able to rely on Family Health Centers of San Diego for caring, high quality medical care.
